Lay

Lee Haramis Jr. First Coast West

Bio: Lee Haramis is a native of Jacksonville, Florida, where he currently resides. Lee was raised in the Episcopal Church; he has been a parishioner of St Mark's since childhood and currently serves as an usher and a reader. He was educated at Episcopal schools in the city, graduating from Episcopal High School in 2010 before attending the University of South Carolina and the University of North Florida for undergraduate and graduate studies. He has a passion for history and finds the history of the church and the church's role in history particularly interesting. Above all, he believes we should strive to serve the Lord in our daily life, whatever our gifts.

Why would you like to serve?

I believe that fairness and justice are central tenets of the Christian faith and it is of the utmost importance that they are properly administered when there is need. This belief, coupled with a broader calling to serve the diocese and Church, is what inspires me.

Clergy

The Rev. Joseph “Gray” Hodsdon First Coast East

Bio: Father Gray currently serves as Curate of San Jose Episcopal Church in Jacksonville, where he assists in all areas of ministry for the parish and day school. He is also serving on the Nominating Committee for our next bishop. Gray attended the School of Theology at Sewanee: The University of the South, where he served as Student Body President in 2019 and sat on the Sewanee Community Council. Prior to seminary, he interned with the Bishop’s Institute for Ministry and Leadership in our diocese and discerned a call to ordained ministry at St. John’s, Tallahassee.

Why would you like to serve?

Given the amount of spiritual care and responsibility entrusted to clergy, I believe that accountability for breaking that trust is paramount, because it is the necessary first step on the way to justice, repentance, forgiveness, healing, and reconciliation in Christ. If elected, I will humbly serve in this important role, knowing the difficult decisions it may require.

The Rev. Laura Mann Magevney First Coast West

Bio: Mother Laura is engaged in inner city ministry at St. Mary’s Episcopal Church & Outreach. Previously, Laura completed a Clinical Pastoral Care Residency at Baptist Hospital serving as a chaplain resident at Wolfson Children’s Hospital and later as a chaplain at Baptist MD Anderson. As a lay person Laura served for over a decade at St. Mark’s Episcopal Church in Jacksonville as the Director of Christian Formation. Laura earned both a Master of Divinity and a J.D. from Vanderbilt University and served as a Public Defender in Nashville, TN. Laura is married to her husband, Michael, and they have four children.

Why would you like to serve?

I have enjoyed my time working with others from across the diocese as one of the coordinators of the Licensed Lay Leader in Pastoral Care course. Serving on the Disciplinary committee would provide me an opportunity to share my gifts in listening, critical thinking, and organizational management with the larger diocese.
