J. Byron Greene

Bio: Byron served several years as Senior Warden of St. Michael and All Angels Episcopal Church and has served as Junior Warden. In addition, he currently serves on the Diocesan Council working with members to create a stronger diocese which is committed and able to better serve the needs of its parishes and diocesan membership. Byron is also member of Cursillo #125, a cradle Episcopalian, and a big believer in the power of Christ to transform lives. He has also served as a member of the House of Deputies to General Convention in 2018 and will serve as vice-chair for a legislative committee for the 80th General Convention in 2022. Byron truly believes the Episcopal Church provides tremendous opportunities to live in the spirit of the Great Commandment of loving God and loving others as ourselves.

Why would you like to serve?

I would like to serve as a Sewanee Board of Trustee member for the Diocese of Florida to provide voice and insight to issues and opportunities in higher education. Currently I serve as a project director for an educational focused program in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) that involves 14 institutions of higher education, funded by the National Science Foundation. In my capacity, I fully engage with senior level administrators, faculty, and students and I will bring this wealth of experience to the Sewanee Board.

As a Trustee of Sewanee, I will seek to advance the richness and diversity of our university while working to enhance and sustain the spiritual, liturgical, and leadership of the Episcopal Church, through Sewanee, as a catalyst to better address the needs of our greater society with graduates that have a foundation steeped in a deep and everlasting relationship with God.

Molly Pina

Bio: Molly lives in Jacksonville, Florida after being born and raised there and attending Episcopal High School in the 1980s. She graduated from The University of the South in 1992, majoring in Psychology and minoring in Religion. While she was there, she was a member of Theta Pi sorority and the Red Ribbon club. She is currently the Parish Administrator at All Saints Episcopal Church in Jacksonville, Florida.

Why would you like to serve?

The University of the South has always been a magical place to me and my family. Both my husband and oldest son graduated from Sewanee; therefore the ties to The Mountain run very deep. I will always have the University's best interests at heart, along with the students and alumni. I believe my occupation and Episcopal background will enable me to serve the Board of Trustees in a positive way.
